Huxley energy drinks

This new, locally crafted energy drink is made from upcycled coffee bean husks. Known as cascara fruit, this typically discarded part of the plant contains the same caffeine boost as coffee but packs a distinctly fruity flavor. Pair it with fruit juice, electrolytes, and L-theanine and you've got a delicious drink that'll give you a buzz without the jitters.

Woodstock banana water

If staying hydrated the old-fashioned way just isn't doing it for you anymore, try organic banana water! Packed with electrolytes, potassium, and vitamins A, B6, and C – with zero added sugars – this organic beverage is a tasty, tropical way to replenish after a run, bike, or yoga sesh in the sun. It's also a great base for summery mocktails and functional drinks.

Herb Pharm Kids

This line of herbal supplements is perfect for when kiddos aren't sick enough to need medicine but still need a little extra help feeling okay. Look for blends to support good sleep (Fast Asleep), cold and cough relief (Throat TLC), stomachache relief (Tummy TLC), and general wellness (Herbal Hug). Each blend is made from organic herbs grown on a single farm in Oregon.
